the State committeeman for the Eleventa

In the makeup of the new State committee to-day it was said that Charles B. Page would succeed Mr. Halpin. This will give, according to the safest and most conservative Republican mathematicians, to the Woodruff-Parsons-Barnes-Greiner, or rather the Roosevelt element, in the State organization a vote of 33 to 5. There was a queer report last night to the effect that a bombshell may be thrown into the State convention to-day in the shape of a resolution calling upon the convention to adopt as part of its platform an indorsement of the Agnew-Hart bills which would repeal the Percy-Gray law which permits tetting at racetracks.

There was a good deal of suppressed discussion over the report, which even went so far as to name Senator Alfred R. Page, by many looked upon as the personal representative of the Governor, as the man who would fling the bombshell A resolution of this kind would have to be offered in the temporary session of the convention and referred to the committee on resolutions when appointed.

It was stated last night that if the committee on resolutions refuses to adopt a plank indorsing the Agnew-Hart bills there will be a minority report brought into the convention and a fight made upon the floor. Senator Page would have nothing to say whatever about the report, and when President Parsons of the New York county committee heard of Senator Page's reported step he said: "Perhaps that is not a matter for a State convention called together to elect delegates at large to a national convention to take up. How-ever, I know nothing about the report that Senator Page is to bring in a resolution calling for the convention to indorse the Agnew-Hart bill."

There was a good deal of a fluster when it was whispered about that Senator Page had practically decided to introduce the resolution indorsing Gov. Hughes's course in advocating the Agnew-Hart bills. Some of the Republicans looked upon it as a very grave menace to the harmony of the convention. They didn't know exactly what to say about it, but the very general opinion was that if Senator Page does introduce such a resolution, and does insist upon a minority report, should the majority refuse to adopt it, the convention will refuse to incorporate the proposed Page resolution in the platform, arguing that that matter should be left for the State convention in the fall when State policies are to be enun-

The proposed Page resolution was not the only cloud of the day. A greater part of the morning and most of the afternoon was taken up by rapid fire arguments over the telephone between the Hughes State League at 500 Fifth avenue and Republican State Headquarters. Edward F. Craigin chairman of the Hughes State Committee was dissatisfied over the selection of the following four delegates at large to be elected by the State convention to-day: Stewart L. Woodford, Seth Low, Frederick R. Hazard and Edward H. Butler.

Mr. Craigin believed that John E. Mil-holland should be one of the four delegates at large. He told Chairman Woodruff so over the telephone, and Mr. Craigin in addiover the telephone, and Mr. Craigin in addition threatened to call together the State committee of the Hughes League and knock the proposed slate to smithereens. Mr. Woodruff fired up and answered Mr. Craigin rather sharply. He called Mr. Craigin's attention to the fact that he, Mr. Craigin, and Representative George L. Waldo of the Fifth Congress district had put up a fight in the Eighteenth Assembly district of Kings county against Naval Officer Kracke, that Kracke had ignomini-ously defeated the Waldo-Craigin combination, and that it came with rather sad grace from Mr. Craigin after that smash ing defeat to take the ground that he could upset the harmony of the State convention to-day. There was a good deal more on the same lines, Mr. Woodruff reminding Mr. Craigin in so many words that Mr. Craigin, after that awful defeat at the primaries, was a little presumptuous in assuming that he was powerful enough to cause a ripple in the convention to-day Mr. Craigin, however, persisted in his course. He called together at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the executive committee of the Hughes State I eague, but could not carry his committee with him. The majority believed that the selections of Woodford, Low, Hazard and Butler were O K and they wouldn't have a squabble about it. Mr. Craigin was defeated at ab points, and still later in the afternoon the Hughes committee made this authoritative announcement of the result of the meeting:

"It was unanimously agreed to continue the same policy heretofore pursued by the eague, which is consistent with that of Gov. liughes, viz.: to leave the whole matter of suggestions in reference to the selection of delegates at large to the hepublican national convention in the hands of the regular hepublican organization.

Naval Officer Kracke was at Republican State headquarters last night. He said that Representative Waldo had at his back fight made against him Mr. Craigin and Mr. Milholland, and added that from various reports in the Eighteenth As-sembly district it cost the Waldo outfit comething like $20,000 to be properly de-eated. Further, he charged that Mr. Milcolland and Mr. Craigin were jointly or adividually interested in a business enterprise and that Representative Waldo had introduced resolutions in the House of Representatives favorable to this business enterprise, the Pneumatic Tube Company, the Waldo bills giving the company the right to extend its tubes to Flatbush. This was one of the unhappiest incidents of the Senator Platt sent a letter from Wash-Chairman Woodruff announcing that he could not be present at the convention to-day. This is the firs Republican State convention Senator Platt has missed in forty years. He has been elected as usual a delegate from Tioga county. William A. The fact that Mr. Ward Mr. Ward was so utterly candid in his utterances led many to believe that he and others might oppose to-day the usual in-structions of the delegates and alternates at large for Gov. Hughes. There was no ground for this report, it was asserted, for the reason that neither Mr. Ward nor any of his friends cared to depart from the customary party usuage or in any way to upset the precedent of the State conrentions of 1896 and 1904. Still there were many ungentle words heard of Gov. Hughes. majority sentiment was to the effect trouble in a Presidential and Gubernatorial

Gen. Woodford, president of the Hughes

National League, issued the following statement last night:
"I remember that Samuel J. Tilden once said in the middle of a doubtful fight, 'the harder the storm the higher the flag.' The harder the storm the higher the flag.' The Hughes flag is now nailed to the mast and will not be pulled down until the Chicago convention has nominated somebody else. I den't think it will have to be pulled down. It is the old Cleveland fight over again, the politicians on one side and the plain people on the other. Have you any doubt that the plain people will win out?'

One of the happy little incidents of the day was a meeting between Charles W Anderson, President Roosevelt's Internal Revenue Collector for the Third district, and A. B. Humphreys, secretary of the Hughes National League. Mr. Anderson of the Republicans of His County. WHITE PLAINS, April 10 .- "I can't see anything but Taft. In my opinion he will be nominated on the first ballot and carry the State of New York by a big majority. said William L. Ward, Republican national committeeman, to-day. Speaking of the action of the Westchester county Republican convention in indorsing the Ohio candidate yesterday, Mr. Ward added: "It is easy enough to be a political leader if one will only find out what the people want and try to comply with their wishes. Before our convention took action the county committee had a poll taken which showed unmistakably that Taft was the favorite. It showed not only that he was the favorite with the business men of the county but also with the workmen in

WARD SAYS IT WILL BE TAFT. Westchester Leader Discusses the Action

Mr. Ward was shown a statement by Alan Robinson that the town of Pelham on a straw ballot had given Gov. Hughes 93 votes, while Taft had received only 56. "That was taken away back last January, said he. "The sentiment has changed very much since then. At the time this ballot was taken Mr. Robinson wrote me and I suggested that he wait until April 1 and take another one. So far as I can learn no take another one. So far as I can learn no other ballot was taken."

Regarding the straw ballot taken in New Rochelle which gave Gov. Hughes 130 to 58 for Taft Mr. Ward said that this being the home town of Charles H. Young, the chief Hughes boomer of the State, the result was not to be wondered at. It was learned, he said, that while New Rochelle and Pelham showed a preference for Gov. Hughes two in Yonkers, Mount Vernon, White Plains, Pleasantville and other towns. It is reported also that of the 1,500 Republicans whose preference was canvassed fully 90 per cent. declared that they were in favor f President Roosevelt if he would accept

Secretary John J. Brown of the Republican county committee denied to-day that the county was tricked into an indorsement

"Our poll was absolutely impartial," said he. "In order to make it so the county committee employed Hughes men in several towns to see the voters and ascertain their preference. TAFT-CANNON CONTEST. Motion for Taft Resolution Results in No. Instruction.

GALESBURG, Ili., April 10.-After a stormy session the Republican convention of the Fifteenth Congress district adjourned in disorder to-day under the gavel wielded by the chairman, Postmaster F. A. Freer, who would not allow an appeal from his decision declaring out of order a motion to instruct for Taft.

The tempest began early when a Taft esolution was presented and after debate referred to a committee. It was renewed in the afternoon when the committee failed to report any resolution of instruction. A motion for Taft was made, but the chairman entertained and declared carried a motion to adjourn. The resolutions contained no reference to Cannon and the delegates are therefore un-Both the delegates, however, personal friends and adherents of

Unwise to Create a Contest by Expressing a Preference-Crane Has His Way. Boston, April 10.-To-day's Republican

State convention was peaceful although no resolution of preference for Secretary Taft was adopted. But the platform committee handed a sop to Taft's supporters by saying: "We all recognize that a majority of the delegates to the convention desire his nomination."

Some of the Taft people expressed themselves as satisfied with this, but there were many who declared that they had been buncoed and laid the blame at the door of Senator Lodge.

The men who have been working with Senator Crane to prevent resolutions of either preference or indorsement declared that they had won a vital victory and that the junior Senator had made good his declaration of several weeks ago that Massachusetts "should uphold her well known traditions and reputation for political liberty by sending delegates unhampered by instructions and resolutions" and that "they should be absolutely free to do that which seems wiscet and best for the party and for the country." •

There is nothing in the platform binding the delegates at large to Taft or any other candidate, but there is no denying that Massachusetts favors Taft's nomina-

The decision not to introduce a preference resolution was not arrived at until daybreak this morning when the Taft leaders came to the conclusion that it would be unwise to submit such a plank. What arguments were used by Senators Crane and Lodge could not be learned, but the Taft men were extremely reluctant to give up their cherished plan. It was only after the opposition expressed its willingness to allow the platform to say that every one recognized that a majority of the delegates favored Taft's nomination that Taft's friends quit. Even Congressman Gardner, who yesterday declared that if he lived until to-day, a Taft resolution would be submitted, attended the convention in the guise of a subdued politician. He evidently saw a new light between 3:30 A. M. and the hour for the convention to meet. He doubtless found satisfaction in the tremendous welcome he received when he entered the hall.

Senator Lodge made a remarkably elo-Senator Lodge made a remarkably elo-quent speech, and it had much to do in bring-ing about the acceptance of the platform without a dissenting vote. He pleaded for harmony, paid a nne tribute to Senator Crane, praised ex-Gov. Bates for with-drawing as a candidate for delegate at large, and patted Lieut.-Gov. Draper on the back. Then he turned his address toward President Receivers saying:

toward President Roosevelt saying: "The millions of dollars may be against him but the millions of votes are with him He is the best abused and the most popular man in the United States. Fault has been found with the violence of his expressions. His language has been considered at times too strong. You cannot call men to an alarm of fire in a whisper and the man who was breaking into a system that had unconsciously grown up in our business world had to use strong language."

Senators Lodge and Crane, ex-Gov. Long and Col. Sydney O. Bigney were elected delegates at large with a cheer, but a discordant note was heard when the time for choosing alternates came. The trouble was caused by the negro delegates, who had candidates of their own for alternates, and also a little row on among them-selves. When Charles W. Williams, clerk of the Juvenile Court, a negro, had been nominated, Assistant United States District Attorney Lewis, one of the same race, opposed his election. He declared Williams had opposed both President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft. Williams replied, ting that he had criticised the Republican had received favors from the party and had never done it an iota of service

The alternates chosen are Frank E. ar, Ralph D. Gillette, the Hon. Winfield S Schuster and the Hon. James F. Shaw of

The resolutions committee's reference to Secretary Taft came at the end of its report, and was as follows:

"A 19 solution declaring that the preference of the convention was for Mr. Taft for President was submitted to your committee. Upon consideration we have unanimously agreed that it is unwise to include a resolution in favor of an include a resolution in favor of the candidate in the platform.

"A number of the committee are favorable to Mr. Taft's candidacy and we all recognize that a majority of the delegates to the convention dedelegates to the convention demonstration. It is, however, a resolution of sire his nomination. It is, however very uncertain whether a resolution of carried its presentation would certainly to a contest, which would be injurious to the welfare of the party. For these reasons and because of their earnest desire for a harmonious convention, the minority members of the committee join with the majority in their decision not to present a resolution of preference.

The tariff plank follows: "We stand absolutely by the principles of protection, but recognize that rates or schedules must be from time to time changed and revised. We believe certain existing schedules have become ill suited to present conditions, and that our able Massachusetts delegation in Congress will take the part the State demands and pects in securing speedily wise revision without abandoning the protective principle or destroying our industries or pauperizing American laborers.

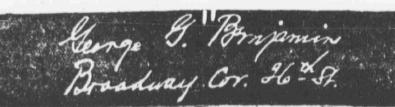

As to monopolies the platform says:
"In the unexampled period of prosperity witnessed during the term of the present national Administration great questions of the control or regulation of transporta-tion facilities, of capital and trust combinations and of monopolies stifling personal enterprise arose for solution. They were the old problems, but changed both in kind and in degree by processes of social and political evolution. It was demon-strated that in certain instances some cororations and combinations were giving inlawful privileges, and that competition and industrial enterprise were being crushed by fraudulent devices seeking monopoly

"Then it was that our Republican President in messages to Congress and in public speeches of matchless force called attention to the instances of wrongdoing, and espe-cially to the evil tendencies which must be arrested lest the social fabric be destroyed. The wrongdoer cried out and the people were aroused. The President proved imself in this emergency alert and watch ful. He saw the destiny of our country and be dared to go forward."

They Meet and Select National Delegates -Anti-McCarren Men Plan Trouble.

The sixty-nine delegates from Brooklyn to the Democratic State convention held a special meeting last night at the Thomas Jefferson headquarters to select the delegates to the national convention and representatives of the various committees in the State convention. Senator McCarren presided and although all the seven Assembly district leaders who joined in a revolt against him on the eve of the recent primaries were on hand and evidently ready for trouble, there was no factional rumpus. It was made clear, however, that the seven district leaders who are opposed to McCarren will be lined up against him in the State convention in the contests planned by Bird S. Coler and the other anti-McCarren managers.

William A. Doyle of the Ninth Assembly district, one of the revolters, pointedly inquired of the chairman: "Is this a caucus?" and Senator McCarren replied, "Call it a meeting."
It was the intention of Doyle and his associates to march out of the hall with their fellow district delegates in case the meeting had been turned into a caucus. Thomas R. Farrell of the Tenth district. Thomas F. Byrnes of the Eleventh and James R. Sinnott of the Twenty-second, also McCarren rebels, each entered objections to the method of appointing the delegates from the Assembly districts to the Congress districts, and there will be few adverse votes on the resolution to approve the full list of the delegates chosen from the latter. This indicates that the matter will be con-tested in the State convention.

Most of the furniture has been packed and the building will soon be vacated.

According to a circular that has been sent out to the members of the association, who include many of the most prominent women of the Oranges, many of them leading Catholics, the work has been abandoned because of the opposition of the Rev. John F. Boylan, rector of the Church of Our Lady of the Valley, in whose parish the home is located.

One of the most important branches of the work was the Girls' Club, which was patterned after the Y. W. C. A. AFTER A BRYAN INDORSEMENT

AUGUSTUS THOMAS SUMMONS THE NEBRASKAN'S FOLLOWERS

And William Harman Black Imparts to Them the Information That the Leaders Are Not Opposed to the Peerless -Committee Named to See Murphy. A parlor full of friends of William Jennings Bryan gathered yesterday afternoon at the Astor House in response to the call of Augustus Thomas and heard on what was stated to be information from the highest sources that there is no opposition to Mr. Bryan on the part of the Democratic State leaders.

William Harman Black imparted the glad information about the kindly feelings of the Democratic leaders. He didn't say whether he had talked with State Chairman Conners or merely with Tammany Leader Murphy, and none of the friends of Bryan really cared who told him so long as it was

The meeting was held in Room 74 of the Astor House, and when Chairman Thomas rapped for order all the fifty chairs were filled, although a few of them were occupied by the overcoats of friends of Bryan, as Frederic W. Hinrichs, candidate for Comptroller on the fusion ticket four years ago. so well put it. Mr. Thomas's postal cards announcing the meeting didn't express the thing quite right. The cards said that all the friends of Bryan were to meet there, whereas, said Mr. Hinrichs, the persons there were all friends, but not all the friends. In calling the meeting to order Mr.

Thomas said that the Bryan friends came there in the spirit in which they last parted, imbued with the faith they last had, and he explained why it was necessary for the meeting to be held. It appears that the three principal Democratic newspapers are proprietary organs which are maligning and ridiculing Bryan and the men who fought the only recent national Demo-cratic fights which had a real successful front. Mr. Thomas feels, and so do all the Bryan friends feel, that so long as "Bryan polled more votes in his successive defeats than Cleveland polled when he was elected" it is pretty tough that Mr. Bryan has to approach another campaign without an aggressive organ in this city.

Harry Walker, one of Mr. Bryan's chief friends, suggested that inasmuch as he understood that the leader of Tammany understood that the leader of Tammany Hall was very friendly to the candidate a committee ought to be appointed to confer with Mr. Murphy and see that Mr. Bryan gets fair play in the convention. The suggestion was adopted and Chairman Thomas appointed William Herman Black, William Pitt Mitchell, ex-Judge C. F. Moore, late of Virginia, William McCrea and William Weir to see Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Hinriohs, who hasn't been a Bryan man as long as some others present, annual control of the second second.

man as long as some others present, an-nounced that he had been recently named as treasurer of all funds that are available for Bryan campaigning in these parts, and expressed his willingness to receive checks. Moreover, he suggested that as other Bryan clubs in New England and elsewhere are called Bryan Progressive Democratic leagues that the name of the local organiza-tion be called. Carried.

President Monahan of the Brooklyn Democratic Club announced that he had been sent to the meeting as the delegate of the club, which on Thursday night passed resolutions for Mr. Bryan. He said that inasmuch as the proper way to get Mr. Bryan's name before the State convention next Tuesday is to hand the committee on resolutions a good strong resolution asking for the instruction of the State delegation for Bryan he would recommend the appointment of such a committee. He made a motion to that effect and it was carried. Mr. Thomas was made chairman of this committee Mr. Walker said that because the newspapers here wouldn't print the true facts about the Bryan sentiment here he thought he ought to tell the friends that the ayers Union, 7,000 strong, indorsed Bryan two weeks ago, and appointed a committee to work for him at the State convention, and later the Ironworkers Union, representing 20,000 votes, also fell in line.

Manton M. Wyvell, chairman of the executive committee of the old Bryan organization here, handed in the treasurer's gamization here, handed in the treasurers report, which showed that the organization had taken in $968 and spent $1,000.16. Of the proceeds Norman E. Mack gave $50, Bird S. Coler $25 and Lewis E. Nixon $25, and $361 came from Mr. Bryan's lectures in this vicinity.

Mr. Wyvell said he had just come from Rochester, where he arranged for Mr. Bryan to speak on April 16. He regretted to say that he had to guarantee the expenses of the meeting there before the Democratio county committee would take hold of it, notwithstanding that a Bryan delegation is to be chosen from that county. He said that while Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties had refused to instruct for Bryan. Illegany, Cattaraugus, Chautaugua and Erie counties had instructed for him, and four or five delegates to Denver would who has been a Hearst man since he was a Democrat the last time. The meeting voted to pick out a man to work up Bryan enthusiasm in every Assembly district in the State. Headquarters of the Bryan Progressive Democratic League will be opened at the Hotel Victoria to day. Mr. Walker said privately after the meet-ing that Bryan will have 180 delegates at the State convention. Gus Thomas, who was turned down by the Westchester county convention because he wouldn't say that he wouldn't work for Bryan and whom the he wouldn't work for Bryan and whom the rich Westchester Democrats said they would beat if they had to spend $100,000, so Mr. Walker said, will be at the convention with an up-State proxy. If Mr. Thomas gets a chance to talk at the convention, Mr. Walker said he will aways it to Rayan.

"It has often been predicted that New York city in the not far distant future would become the exchange centre of the world ever, sets back by a number of years the poseibility of the consummation of houe. So long as our money market is exposed to such vicissitudes as the experience of this last crisis brought so prominently before the world we cannot come into our own, and we will still have to use the letters of credit on London and other European money centres for a large portion of our foreign commerce.
"If a merchant desires to import goods from South America or from China or Japan, to be drawn for at sixty or ninety Japan, to be drawn for at sixty of lines, days, as is the custom, such a credit authorizing the draft to be made on London Paris is as good as the cash. The same or Paris is as good as the cash. The same sort of a credit issued on New York is not as good as the cash, as the foreign banker negotiating the same would in making his rates of exchange have to speculate abnormal conditions that might con-

"On the other hand, the same transaction based upon a sight draft on New York would compare favorably with a similar transaction in any other monetary centre So you will observe that the uncertainty of the monetary condition which a time of the monetary condition with New York draft might meet when reaching New York city from practically eliminated New York city from a change markets. We the category of exchange markets. We must be content to take a second or third rate position as a financial centre until we can place ourselves on a basis of sound banking on which the commerce of England, France, Germany and other modern commercial nations rests.
